

Maid of the Mist

Date

Wed, 01/01/2025 - 12:30

Activity

Skiing

Skied Maid of the Mist today. The only avalanches seen were small (<10ft in length) loose snow releases directly below small trees on north facing 35+ degree aspects at 9200 feet. Poor visibility generally limited views to a few hundred yards. A small amount of stiffening from wind was noticed on the snow surface on the way out of the basin, but there was little to no wind effect in the trees on the south side of the Maid. Ski conditions were fantastic.

Region

Northern Gallatin

Location (from list)

Maid of the Mist

Observer Name

Pat H